

You do not need permission from someone or anyone to spread love and light on the planet. .Nor do you need to devise some special gathering or plan to make it so. All you need is the right intention, and a heart for the frame of reference and the ability and will to do just that.

While others may be too busy or waiting for the perfect opportunity to do something, you can start now, you can stop now and proceed with your heart centered intentions for love, light, peace, truth and total certainty that all will be well.

That this is a symptom of an incurable disease that needs to be wiped off the planet is exactly what it is, exactly what needs to happen and is exactly what is happening before your very eyes.

If you're going to gather, gather in celebration for the time at hand, if you're going to pray-pray for the warriors that are stepping in to make many things happen.

You all are warriors in your own way; some passive, some active, some peaceful, some not so. You all have a part to play in this new world your co-creating so you can overthrow the dark forces, the evil that was planted here so long ago.

But don't dwell on that, look beyond that, look to the future and what you wish to create, to move forward.

Those with ears to hear will hear it and those with eyes to see will see it. That is where you focus your time and strength.

Don't feel guilty for not.....guilt is not a feeling that can be sustained in the fifth dimension.

So let it be absolved as the crucifixion energy it is of the third and fourth dimension and join forces with the light beings and angels of the fifth so we can continue to co-create heaven on earth with all of you because that's ultimately what you're here to do- We love you, we leave you, we are never far from you.
